The Finest French Lingerie for June Brides' Trousseau

FRENCH LINGERIE occupies a place of honor in the preparations of every bride particular of her wardrobe. Every fashionable style in Trousseau Lingerie is shown in our direct importations on display in the French room.

Materials are nainsooks, percales and muslins of the finest quality. The trimmings consist of fine valenciennes, Irish and tordón laces applied in a diversity of styles; pretty ribbons and elegant hand-embroideries. All the garments are entirely handmade.

We know the values to be the very best obtainable through extensive direct buying and a thorough knowledge of quality combined with experience. Those whose tastes are the simplest or who desire the most sumptuous styles will be equally well pleased.

FRENCH GOWNS, $2.75 to $35

Low-neck styles, in round, V and square effects, also high-neck models, with short, three-quarter, or long sleeves, beautifully hand-embroidered; others hand-embroidered and richly lace-trimmed.

FRENCH PETTICOATS, $2.00 to $16.50

All the newest models; wonderful creations of rich hand-embroidery and beautiful laces; others are composed of heavier materials, such as pique and percale, with simple hand-embroidered flounces.

FRENCH CHEMISES, $1.25 to $15

Dainty and charming combinations of hand-embroidery and pretty laces, beading, and ribbons; others with hand-embroidery most sensibly used as the sole trimming.

FRENCH DRAWERS, $1.00 to $10.50

Every style; plain hand-embroidered, and those with hand-embroidery and laces used in combination with fine beading and ribbons.

FRENCH COMBINATIONS, $2.00 to $10.50

Suits and Envelope Chemises, princess and blouse effects, hand-embroidered, and with or without elaboration of lace.

FRENCH CORSET COVERS, $1.50 to $12.50

Daintily hand-embroidered, and some lace-trimmed; the most beautiful creations we have ever shown are in this assortment.

THE WAR DAY BY DAY
Fifty Years Ago.

June 8, 1864—Abraham Lincoln Was Nominated for a Second Term as President, and Andrew Johnson, of Tennessee, for the Vice Presidency, at a Convention of Republicans Held at Baltimore—Reasons for the Choice of Johnson.

(Written expressly for The Washington Herald.)

Fifty years ago today Abraham Lincoln was nominated for a second term as President of the United States, and Andrew Johnson, of Tennessee, for the Vice Presidency, at a convention of Republicans held at Baltimore.

The renomination of Lincoln was in accordance with a spontaneous call from his party in all parts of the North. The choice of Johnson—destined to prove of the utmost importance, since the mantle of the President was to fall to him, on Lincoln's tragic death, at a time when the colossal burden of reconstructing the Union was to be taken up—was dictated by purely political considerations. It was believed that a candidate from a border State, and a Democrat, would draw more votes than a Republican candidate from a Northern State. Hannibal Hamlin, of Maine, had served four years as Vice President without displaying conspicuous ability. He had many political friends, who showed their devotion by voting for him; but it was foreseen, and understood by the delegates to the convention, that the Vice Presidential candidate must be a border State man if possible.

Political exigencies thus brought the former East Tennessee tailor into the path of destiny. Lincoln had publicly made no sign that might be interpreted as indicating his desire to serve again as President. His friends, however, knew that he wanted again to serve, in order to carry out to its end the great work of saving the Union. On the Vice Presidential candidacy the President had also been silent. Andrew Johnson, whom Lincoln had appointed military governor of Tennessee in 1862, and whose political activity had made him well known to the administration, might have been considered by Lincoln as an available candidate; but the President had not indicated, even to his friends, that he wished Mr. Johnson for his colleague on the ticket.

"To the Gates of Death."

Certain features of the Baltimore convention stand out today in bold relief, historically interesting and significant, among the forgotten details of the gathering, at which 500 delegates were present. One was the choice, when the convention assembled on June 7, at the Prince Street Theater, of an eloquent old clergyman from a slave State, Rev. Dr. Robert J. Breckinridge, of Kentucky, as temporary chairman. Another was the impassioned speech, unprecedented but welling up like a fountain, that flowed from the lips of the white-haired speaker. It breathed a militant spirit and a devotion to the Union and the Constitution. The speaker disclaimed political bias.

Following his usual custom the President attended church yesterday morning at the Central Presbyterian Church. He was accompanied by his cousin, Miss Helen Woodward Bones, and attended as usual by men of the Secret Service staff always on duty at the White House. Late in the afternoon the President and Mrs. Wilson went for a motor ride. Mr. and Mrs. McAdoo joined the family circle at dinner last evening.

The Vice President and Mrs. Marshall will leave today for Bangor, Me., where the former is to make an address on Wednesday.

The Secretary of the Interior and Mrs. Lane have selected a cottage at Essex, on Lake Champlain, as a residence for the summer. Mrs. Lane and children will go there during the present week, to be joined by the head of the family as the duties of his office will permit.

Mrs. Houston, wife of the Secretary of Agriculture, will also leave town for the summer this week, accompanied by her children. The Secretary and Mrs. Houston have selected Woods Hole, Mass., as their summer home.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Beale McLean will have with them for the summer the small son of Dr. and Mrs. Shirley Carter, of Warren, N. H. The boy has just concluded a visit to Master Vinson Walsh McLean, at his parents' home on Massachusetts avenue.

The young Virginian, who is just the age of his Washington host, will be the nursery companion of the latter, sharing toys, lessons, and recreations. While the best of friends, the two boys have had a widely different experience in life, short as that has been. While Master McLean has been double guarded by nurses and detectives, Master Carter has shown himself a wonderful amateur horseman and remarkably self-reliant. He has been a constant companion of his father, and the mascot of the Carter stable at Warrenton since leaving his cradle. He has also been the object of particular attention of his father's jockeys and trainers, and a familiar, if small figure, at the Virginia horse show in general, and the Warrenton Hunt Club in particular.

It was by his precocious and self-reliant manner that first attracted the admiration of Mr. and Mrs. McLean when they were guests of Dr. and Mrs. Carter, that led to the practical adoption for the season of the Virginia boy by the Washington couple.

While Master McLean visited the little Virginian for an indefinite visit on a first sight, Mrs. Carter is said to have stipulated for a week's trial in Washington. Her son became a member of the household at Black Point Farm. This preliminary visit was so successful and so obviously beneficial to both children, that the respective parents are equally happy in the summer arrangement.

Mrs. McLean will also have with her for the greater part of the summer Miss Carter, of Warrenton, who will act as joint guardian and governess for her young relative and his little host.

Engagement Announced

The announcement in Philadelphia on Saturday of the engagement of Miss Mary Morris Jaux, of Bryn Mawr, to Dr. Charles D. Walcott, Secretary of the Smithsonian Institution, is of particular interest at this time when the rumor of a new marriage would shortly be installed in Dr. Walcott's handsome home has brought society to a high pitch of excitement.

Miss Jaux is the daughter of George Vaux, of Philadelphia, and a member of a family prominent in that city for nearly 100 years. Like Dr. Walcott, she has taken a great interest in educational work, and is a great traveler. While no date is named for the wedding it is expected that the engagement will be short to permit Dr. Walcott, accompanied by his bride on his proposed extensive Western tour of the present summer.

Dr. Walcott has been a widower for a little less than three years. His family consists of an only daughter, Miss Helen Walcott, a debutante of last winter, and two young sons.

Commander Burstin, naval attaché of the Austro-Hungarian Embassy, will not accompany the Embassy to Manchester, but like most of the naval and military attaches, will remain in Washington through the greater part of the summer. "Count Laszlo" Cravallo, the handsome, has left Washington for the summer, but will remain in New York or on Long Island for the international polo games.

Mr. Carroll Robertson, of New York, is in town passing the week-end. Mr. Robertson's engagement to Miss Margaret Britton, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Britton, was announced a few weeks ago. Mr. and Mrs. Britton will remain at their Street home through June.

Mrs. Sevelion Brown has recovered from severe illness of the early summer and gone to Boston to visit her daughter, Mrs. George Huntly, for June. Later Mrs. Brown will join her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Phelps Brown, at Springfield, Mass., to remain through the summer.

Mrs. Watson F. Clark and Miss Clark have gone to Cambridge, Mass., to attend the marriage of Mrs. Clark's niece, Miss Evelyn Carpenter, and Mr. Edward S. Pratt on Tuesday. Following that event they will go to their summer home on Cape Cod.

Mr. Frank McKee, of Indianapolis, a frequent visitor to Washington when his sister-in-law, Mrs. James Robert McKee, was a resident of the White House.

BACCALAUREATE SUNDAY
OBSERVED AT TRINITY

Religious Exercises Ushers in Commencement Week of College.

Which Closes Thursday.

"Baccalaureate Sunday" was observed at Trinity College yesterday by a pontifical high mass, celebrated in O'Connor Hall, which had been converted into a chapel for the occasion. The officiating of the mass were as follows: Rt. Rev. Edward P. Allen, Bishop of Mobile, celebrant; Very Rev. Dr. John F. Fenlon, S. S., assistant priest; Very Rev. Robert A. Skinner, C. S. P., and Rev. Dr. George M. Sauvage, C. S., deacons of honor. Very Rev. Dr. Charles P. Aiken and Rev. Dr. John W. Meloy, deacons of the mass; Rev. Charles Duquay, and the Rev. Leo L. McVay, L. S. T., masters of ceremonies.

The baccalaureate sermon, a discourse on "Prayer," was delivered by Rev. William J. Knappe, professor of sociology at Trinity College and the Catholic University. He declared that the influence of women in the world depended in large measure upon their loyalty and fidelity to prayer.

"Trust none of your enthusiasms which would have you dispense with prayer," said Dr. Knappe in part. "Feed proud of no achievement when the account of it includes no story of humble reference to the God from whom all Christian aims derive their approved interpretation. Prayerful women stand on the terrace centuries, and their upturned faces catch and reflect the light of heaven in unbroken continuity from the days of Mary, the Mother of Prayer, even to this our day. Associate yourselves with this holy tradition of the Incarnation. Be women of prayer, and I shall answer for you."

"Baccalaureate Sunday" ushers in commencement week at Trinity. The ceremonies of the week will conclude next Thursday morning, when Rt. Rev. Philip J. Garrigan, Bishop of Sioux City, Iowa, will confer the degrees on the graduates.

BAPTISTS DEDICATE
NEW PETWORTH CHURCH

Three Hundred Persons Attend Services, Which Will Continue Until Thursday Evening.

Formal dedication was given the new Petworth Baptist Church yesterday afternoon in the completed portion of the building at Seventh and Randolph streets before a congregation of 300 people of Petworth and others interested in the progress of the church.

The dedicatory sermon was preached by Rev. John E. Briggs, pastor of the Fifth Baptist Church. His subject was "Baptist Principles and Prospects." He gave a short history of the denomination, the progress of its work in this city and a recital of the distinctive characteristics of the Baptist belief. Rev. W. H. O. Millington, chairman of the Columbia Association of Baptist Churches, presided, and many other Baptist clergymen of the city were present. A collection was taken which amounted to enough to pay off any outstanding debt in connection with the building work.

The dedicatory exercises will continue until Thursday evening, when "home night" will be observed and the future work of the new church will be discussed. The annual conference of the Southern Baptist Convention will be held Tuesday evening, and a denominational service will follow on Wednesday night. At this meeting the Baptist pastors of the city will address the congregation.

EXERCISES AT TOME SCHOOL.

Program Will Conclude with Commencement Address Friday.

Port Deposit, Md., June 7.—The Rt. Rev. Joseph M. Francis, Bishop of Indiana, preached the baccalaureate sermon at the Tome School this morning. The exercises were held in Memorial Hall before a large audience composed of the graduates and their friends. Thursday morning, at 1 o'clock, the last chapel and initiation into the Alpha Delta Tau Fraternity will take place, after which the prizes for proficiency in athletics will be awarded. At 3 o'clock a baseball game will be played between the regular team and an aggregation composed of members of the alumni association. Dr. Baker will give a reception at 8:30 o'clock to the members of the senior class and alumni at the headmaster's house.

Friday morning the class-day exercises will take place, followed by the Alpha Delta Tau luncheon at 12:30. At 2:30 the diplomas will be awarded to the graduates, and the commencement address will be delivered by Senator George E. Chamberlain, of Oregon.
